Belwood Hall has been a community landmark and since the 1870s hosting events, meetings, and local traditions for generations.

Wellington County approved an additional $980,000 for the project, bringing the total renovation cost to about $1.85 million.

The original estimate for the project was between $800,000 and $875,000 before costs increased.

County staff said many components of the building are at the end of their lifespan and need to be addressed.

County staff said many components of the building are at the end of their lifespan. The increased cost reflects a more detailed understanding of the work required.
